DETAILED ACTION

The following is a supplemental action mailed in response to applicants' petition, filed 7/25/02 as Paper No. 6, in which applicants provide evidence that the action mailed 11/21/01 was never received. Applicants' petition was granted in Paper No. 7, mailed 10/8/02. The supplemental action is identical to that sent 11/21/01.

Supplemental Action

Receipt is acknowledged of applicants' preliminary amendment, filed 7-24-01 as Paper No. 3, in which claims 1-40 were cancelled and new claims 41-64 added. Claims 41-64 are pending in this application.

Receipt is also acknowledged of an information disclosure statement, filed 6/18/01 as Paper No. 2. The signed and initialed PTO-1449 has been mailed with this action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 41-64 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 41 and 49 are vague and indefinite in that the metes and bounds of the phrase "...until a desired level of production..." are unclear. The term "desired level" does not appear to have been explicitly defined in the specification and is highly subjective, making it unclear as to what level of protein would satisfy the claim limitation. It would be remedial to amend the claim language to clearly indicate what level of protein production would satisfy the criteria for a “desired” level of protein.

Claim 48 is vague and indefinite in that the metes and bounds of the phrase “...wherein lysis of the E. coli host cell is delayed at higher multiplicities of infection relative to lower multiplicities of infection...” are unclear. It is unclear whether the phrase refers to a characteristic of the phage/host cell combination used in the method or actually refers to some additional method step. It would be remedial to amend the claim language to clearly indicate whether the phrase refers to a characteristic of the phage/host cell combination used in the method or actually refers to some additional method step.

Claims 53 and 58 are vague and indefinite in that the metes and bounds of the phrase “...providing conditions to delay lysis; and cultivating the E. coli host cell under a culture condition that induces lytic growth of said cell without lysis until a desired level of production...” are unclear. First, the term “desired level” does not appear to have been explicitly defined in the specification and is highly subjective, making it unclear as to what level of protein would satisfy the claim limitation. It would be remedial to amend the claim language to clearly indicate what level of protein production would satisfy the criteria for a “desired” level of protein. Secondly, it appears that the step of “providing conditions to delay lysis” and the step of “cultivating” the host cell such that lysis is delayed until a “desired” level of protein is produced are redundant. This makes it unclear what is actually intended by the phrase “...providing conditions to delay lysis...”. It would be remedial to delete this phrase as it does not appear to add anything to the claim.

Art Unit: 1636

Claim 63 is vague and indefinite in that it is not clear as the claim is currently written whether the step of growing a first lysogenic strain E. coli to produce a phage lysate and the step of subsequently lytically infecting a second strain of E. coli cells are practiced in the same culture or if the steps can be practiced in different cultures. For example, would infection of a strain of E. coli having a plasmid encoding a desired protein with a phage lysate prepared from a separate culture of lysogenic cells read on the claimed method? It would be remedial to amend the claim language to clearly indicate whether the cited steps are necessarily performed in the same culture of cells (e.g. a mixture of two different E. coli cell types)?

Claim 63 is also vague and indefinite in that there is no clear and positive prior antecedent basis for the term "protein" in line 9 of the claim.

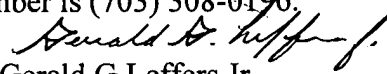

Conclusion

No claims are allowed.
